Science and Art resemble Horace's concordia discors (discordant harmony) from his "Epistles" and both are built on imagination.

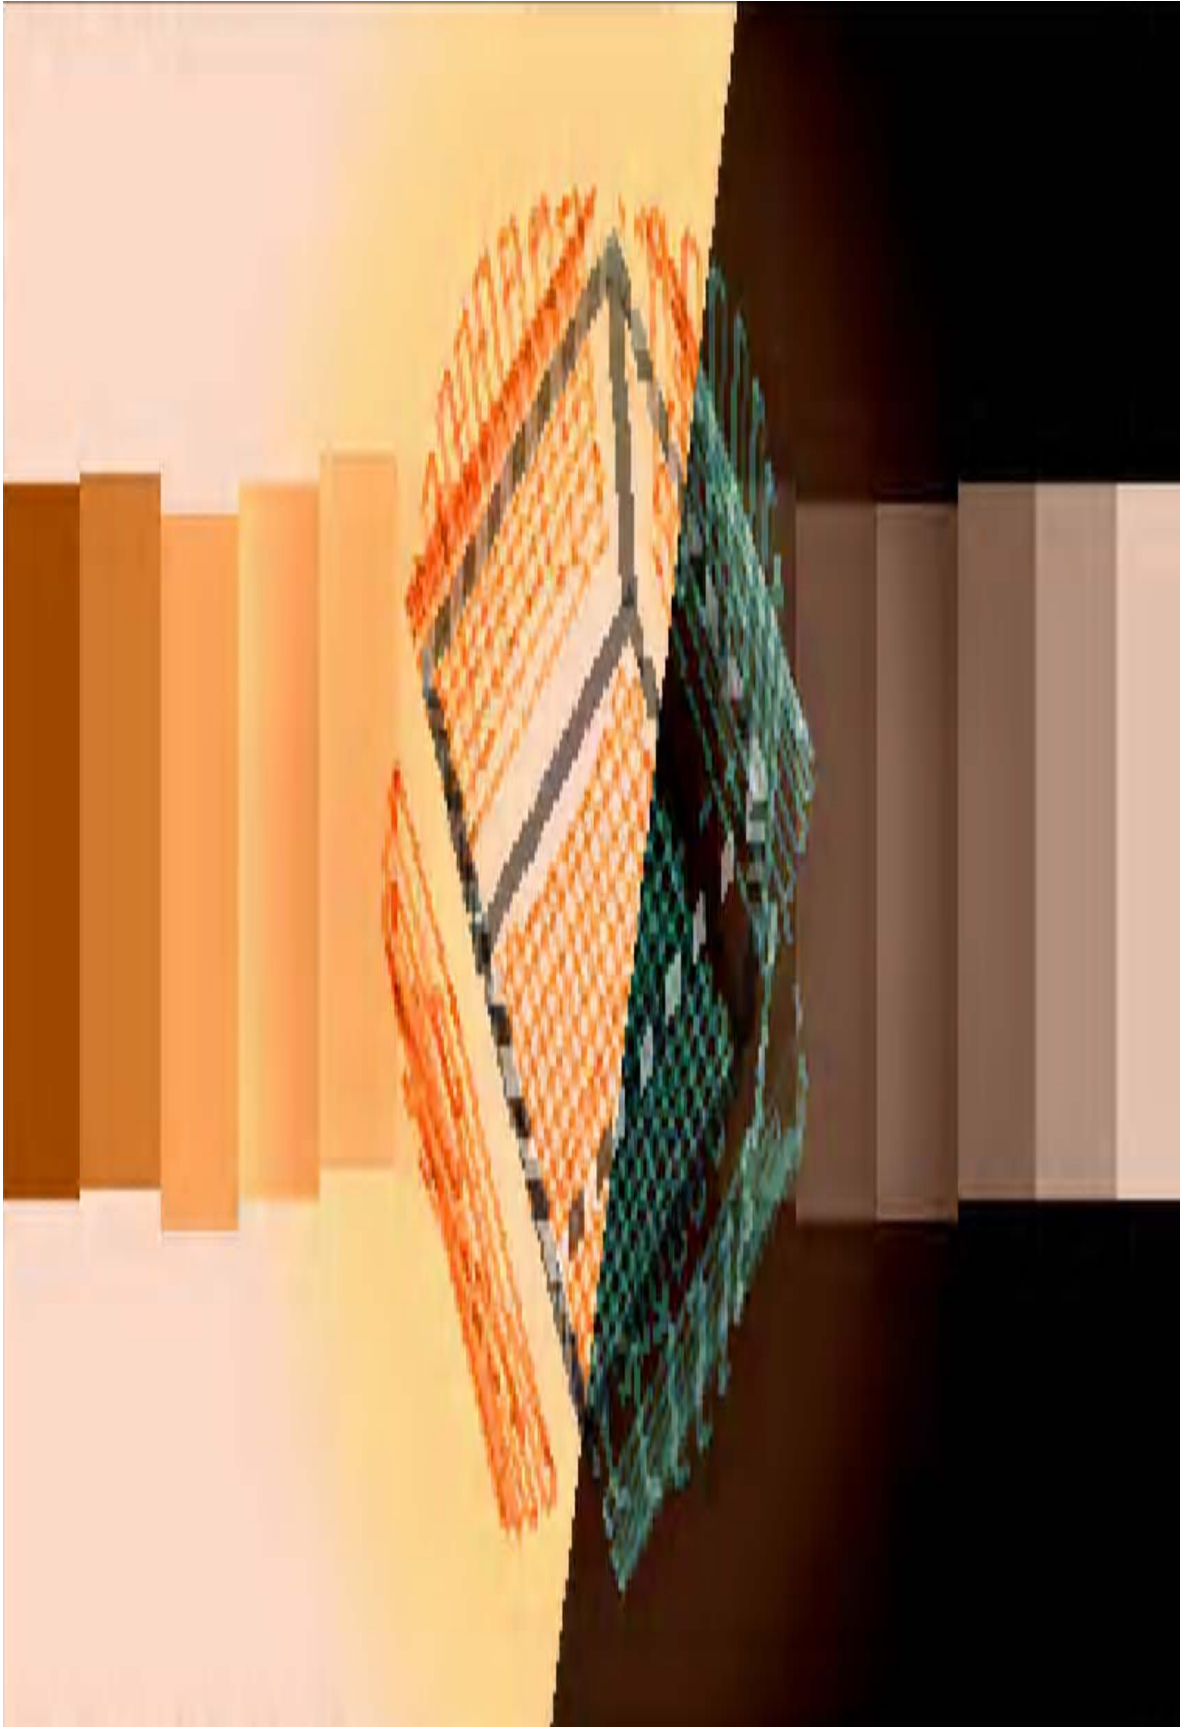

Imagination is a quality given a man to compensate him for what he is not, and a sense of humor was provided to console him for what he is (Oscar Wilde).

Every great advance in science has issued from a new audacity of imagination (John Dewey).

And similarly for the advance in art and letters.

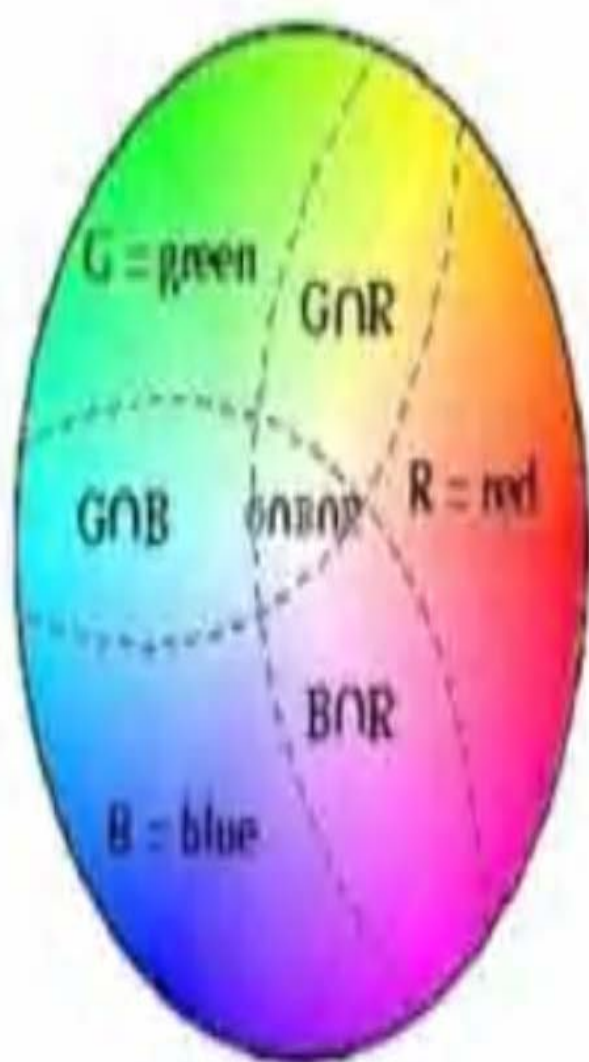

Now, a series of 130 geometrized and almost geometrized digital images follow...
